

Course Name: Educational Supervision Theories.

Course No. : (701730).

Credit Hours: (3) Hours.

Course Description:

This course deals with the study of the development of the concept of educational supervision in preparation for the presentation and analysis of the brightening theories and its trends so that the student acquires a theoretical concept in educational supervision that helps him to form multiple perceptions of the brightening practices. It also aims to study the foundations upon which the educational supervision process is based, such as teaching, learning, curriculum assessment, teacher leadership development, and the pillars of the supervisor's educational platform on which he works in the educational field. It also deals with the study of the organizational climate in schools and the role of the supervisor in improving this climate, with a focus on the supervisory dialogue and its impact on the relationship between the supervisor and the teacher, and the construction of proposed programs for educational supervision in the light of modern educational supervision theories.